

AP Language Summer Assignment

Hello, Juniors,

The journey to the AP Exams for English can be daunting. In order to get a head start on some of the skills, you will be starting a journal about the following readings.

1. Your journal needs to be in google docs so it can easily be transferred to the google classroom.
2. Familiarize yourself with the rhetorical appeals in the first reading. Reference the link often.

Skills:

READ THIS FIRST

Ethos, Pathos, Logos

<https://natureofwriting.com/courses/introduction-to-rhetoric/lessons/ethos-pathos-and-logos/>

Directions:

Find three (3) ads - commercials, print, or digital media - for each rhetorical appeal and explain in a brief paragraph, how you recognized ethos, pathos, and logos. Include the links or upload images for the ads.

Application:

“Politics and the English Language” by George Orwell

<https://pdf4pro.com/view/politics-and-the-english-language-public-library-uk-5b8825.html>

“A Room of One’s Own” by Virginia Woolf

http://seas3.elte.hu/coursematerial/PikliNatalia/Virginia\_Woolf\_-\_A\_Room\_of\_Ones\_Own.pdf

“The Ballot or the Bullet” Malcom X, Introduction by

<https://americanradioworks.publicradio.org/features/blackspeech/mx.html>

“Visualizing Racism” Various Photographer, introduction by Eugene Robinson

<https://www.washingtonpost.com/magazine/2019/11/25/visualizing-racism-photo-essay/?arc404=true>

Directions:

For each article, write five (5) journal entries discussing the authors use of rhetorical appeals and the language they used to accomplish their goals. Then, answer the following questions:

1. Were they successful in getting their point across?
2. Who do you think was the intended audience?